CASCARETS FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

TO-NIGHT! CLEAN YOUR BOWELS
AND END HEADACHES, COLDS,
SOUR STOMACH.

Get a 10-cent box.
Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passage through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.
Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.
A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Bloating, Severe Colds, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

PAYMENTS RECEIVED FOR ANIMALS KILLED

W. B. AUSTIN AND GEORGE AUSTIN GET CHECKS FROM SEC. RETARDER OF AGRICULTURE.

COVERS HALF OF LOSS

State Government Will Reimburse for Other Half If Bill Now Before Legislature is Passed.

W. B. Austin and George Austin, who own and operate a large stock farm east of Janesville, have received checks for $4,421.97 and $2,906.02, respectively, from the United States department of agriculture to cover the federal government's share of the losses incurred by these men as the result of the condemnation and slaughter of their stock which was found to be afflicted with the foot and mouth disease.

The amounts paid cover fifty percent of the value fixed upon the stock by the government appraisers. It is probable that the other half will be paid by the state of Wisconsin, providing the proposed legislation passes at this session of the legislature.

Cooper Sends Word.
Congressman Henry Allen Cooper, who has interested himself in the situation arising out of the quarantine of southern Wisconsin, and who has all in his power to remove the hardships which stockmen have suffered as a result of the order, writes as follows with reference to the paying of the indemnities:

"This is just a word to tell you that, in response to my inquiry, the secretary of agriculture notified me yesterday that he had just sent a check for $4,421.97 to W. B. Austin, Janesville, and another check for $2,906.02 to George Austin, Janesville, to cover the government's share of loss sustained by them because of slaughtered cattle infected with foot and mouth disease. I hope that other farmers and stockmen who have suffered similar loss will be reimbursed without necessary delay."

At last week the house passed a bill appropriating $2,500,000 to be paid by the Secretary of Agriculture in his discretion to defray the government's share (fifty per cent) of losses sustained by farmers because of the slaughter of stock by the government when found to be afflicted with foot and mouth and other diseases of farm animals.

Messrs. Austin are the only farmers in this part of the state who have received indemnity for slaughtered animals from the government.

Both of the Austins were heavily stocked. At the W. B. Austin premises where the slaughter took place early in December, more than a lot of stock were diseased, including a hundred more head of cattle, 800 head of sheep and 40 hogs. Even when the state meets the federal government with interest, it will hardly cover the actual loss incurred.

RESOLUTION PASSED FOR ISSUING BONDS

Council Orders City Attorney to Prepare Ordinance for Bond Issue.

—Salaries to be Given Readings.

On the resolution passed by the council at their adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon, City Attorney W. H. Deussen introduced a resolution which was ordered to prepare resolutions and ordinances for the issuance of negotiable municipal bonds to the amount of $265,000 for the purchase of the Janesville water works. When these papers are prepared the council aims to take immediate action, so as to be able to take over the plant as soon as possible, at least before April first.

The resolution introduced by Mayor Jas. A. Fathers and passed by the council was as follows: "Whereas the railroad commission of Wisconsin has on the 30th day of January, 1915, fixed and determined the compensation to be paid to the Janesville Water company, for the property of said company to be of use for the convenience of the public at the sum of $265,000 as set forth in the order, and whereas the public interest requires that such funds be raised and secured by the issuance and sale of negotiable municipal bonds of said city in the sum of $265,000, and the necessary resolutions and ordinances to effect said purpose."

If the bonded ordinance and resolution is passed by City Attorney W. H. Deussen on Friday, an adjourned meeting will be held to discuss the papers and vote upon their passage.

The ordinance to fix the salaries of officers of the city of Janesville, per annum, payable at the end of each month, was given its first and second reading by City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund. The new ordinance raises the two increases of the mayor of the city, clerk being raised $20 to $1,100 and the city treasurer increased $40 to $1,000. The salary of the remaining officers of the city is as follows: City attorney, $1,000; city engineer, $1,000; assessor, $800; sealer of weights and measures, $400; health officer, $500; visiting nurse, $800; plumbing inspector, $1,000; chief of police, $1,200; chief of fire department, $1,200; city electrician, $200; total, $14,400. The appointments are made at the first meeting in April and this ordinance is not made until the new year, owing to the law, which prevents the way of any city official being raised during his term of office.

RIVER WATERS STEADY AT THE PRESENT TIME

The storm of Monday and Tuesday has had the noticeable effect on the height of the river, the water being up to the government gauge at the upper electric plant, the water is but nine inches above the mark. It is expected, however, that when the present snow begins to leave the ground, there will be a marked rise in the river waters.

HONOR C. E. MOORE AT STATE MEETING

Janesville Man, Elected President of State Highway Commissioners' Association.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—The Wisconsin County Highway Commissioners' association on Wednesday elected C. E. Moore of Janesville president, C. J. Morrissey of Superior vice president and T. W. Humble of Antigo secretary and treasurer.

The highway school spent the day discussing proposed changes in state highway aid law as recommended by the state commission. The opinion of the school should be made known among other things.

Funds made available by the legislature in proportion to their valuation, allowing towns and villages to vote taxes and apply for state aid any time before the general election in November.

County clerks before Jan. 1 of each year notify the commission of disposition of road funds.

Creation by county boards of a state aid road and bridge committee to superintend purchasing road machinery, approve contracts, supervise construction, direct expenditures, and with the county clerk audit bills.

No considerable portion of the state aid fund be spent improving main streets in fourth class cities.

Money raised by automobile and motorcycle licenses be returned to counties after subtracting cost of collection, the money to be spent on roads.

County boards be given authority to create police departments to curb accidents due to careless automobile driving, fines to go toward paying court costs and balance to be spent on roads.

The legislature pass a law allowing county boards to regulate tire widths.

Towns be compelled to drag roads.

Use of convict labor on road be continued.

The commission makes a recommendation as to the appropriation for 1916, but says: "The organization of the Wisconsin division of highways brought to such efficiency, expenditures contemplated for 1915 can be handled without difficulty, and equal, and possibly larger amounts could undoubtedly be well handled in future years."

In the Fall and Winter you are very apt to catch cold and develop a cough; be prepared by having a bottle of "Allen's Cough Remedy"—recommended by all who have used it—you will not make a mistake.

Safety First

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.

A rumor with a vein of authenticity both locally and in the district, has to the effect that A. Young, at present general foreman of the Chicago shops, is to succeed Walter Alexander, Governor Phillip's recent appointee to the Wisconsin railroad commission as district master mechanic at Milwaukee.

Will Hart, a brother to Pete Hart, also is in line for the position, although his name has not been mentioned in the same degree as the Chicago man's. Hart is at present master mechanic at Green Bay. Both have seen long service and locally railway shop men are of the opinion that either would fill the position made vacant by Alexander in a fitting and efficient manner.

Engineer Thomas Fox is enjoying his monthly ten days' lay off. Tom is slyly patting himself on the back and knocking wood, because of his missing the storm on the M. & P. Engineer Con Harrison is doing the relief work.

BAD COLD? FEEL HEADACHY, DULL AND STOPPED UP

FIRST DOSE OF "PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND" RELIEVES ALL GRIPPE MISERY.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end gripe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only 25 cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

James Fox, assistant train dispatcher at Milwaukee, kept things moving in and out of Janesville from the local office during the traffic tieup consequent on the storm.

Stories that would turn an old hogger's hair white still continue to be related by crews that were caught west during the storm.

The snow blow is still off the track near Monroe. The local wrecking crew went west yesterday morning, but accomplished little.

Roadmaster Jackson has a crew busy on the depot platform tearing up the remains of the winter lines of plank, parallel and inside the rails.

Wheel flanges tended to push and plank and board them to such a height that cowcatchers on passenger engines were tearing large splinters loose at every passing.

Pipefitters, from the Milwaukee shops, who have been repairing the pipes at the roundhouse, returned yesterday to their regular duties at the Cream City.

Normal freight traffic conditions were restored on the Mineral Point division yesterday. Locally the local yard crews are hustling to handle the excess held back by the storm. It is just at present, coming from every direction.

Chicago & Northwestern Railway. Engineer C. H. Garbutt is relieving Engineer Joe Erdman of Nos. 54 and 55, the Evansville passenger.

A Fond du Lac crew is erecting the new steel viaduct to the north of the city, near the sandpits. A local crew has charge of the work train.

The storm, "soda" speak, has placed a blanket on the campaign for membership, by local workers, of the Purty league.

A dispatcher from the chief's office at Baraboo has been on duty here during the storm. Wire trouble continued on roads.

Shop Foreman Wade, Storekeeper F. L. Hennessy and James Cunningham of the local safety committee, attended the monthly Wisconsin division safety meeting at Wisconsin Wednesday. Matters for the welfare of both employees and the Janesville public were taken up for consideration and will be undertaken as rapidly as weather conditions permit.

State highway warning shortcut taking pedestrians that the Montgomery railway bridge is private property, dangerous territory and no place to be used for foot path, have been erected at either end of the structure. The markers were placed on the recommendation of the local committee because of the numerous narrow escapes lately.

Milwaukee men tell the story of an old German cobbler on their single track bridge, just a few rods down stream from that of the Northwestern. The old fellow was in the center of the structure and seeing the engine approaching at such a rate of speed that he would be unable to reach the opposite end, he attempted to climb on the ties outside the rails.

The engineer was not going at a fast pace and that he saw the man. He quickly shut off and dashed out on the tannery and shouted, "What the hell are you doing there?" The bewildered and badly frightened German, tightly clutching his umbrella, which he seemed to care more for than safety for his person, replied, "Well, I don't expect you so soon."

Wednesday's Market.—A short run and urgent orders forced lamb values 25c above Tuesday's top bid, selling at $9.35, standing 70c above a week ago and 60c above the end of February record made in 1910. Traders are talking $10 lambs before the end of March. The high point in 1914 was $9.50.
Only 13,300 cattle arrived here the first half of this week, or 23.00 less than a week ago. This advanced price, 30c above last week's low spot. Yesterday's trade was weak with packers inclined to balk any further return.
There was a decided reversal of fortune in the hog market. Chicago's top yesterday was $7.25 or 5c higher than at St. Louis. It was only last Monday that the latter market quoted tops at $7.40, against $6.95 at Chicago. A week ago supply and demand proposition at Chicago. Receipts for today are estimated at 2,500 cattle, 22,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep, against 3,414 cattle, 25,439 hogs and 4,726 sheep a week ago, and 3,457 cattle, 21,340 hogs and 1,849 sheep corresponding Thursday a year ago.

Hog Average Higher.—Average price of hogs at Chicago was $7.14 against $6.97 Tuesday. $8.45 a week ago, $8.42 a year ago, $7.84 two years ago and $6.15 three years ago. Yesterday's hog purchases followed.

GIBBONS WOULD MEET M'GOORTY AT HUDSON

"It's a Long Way to Cuba" Says Mike When Talk of Marathon Battle at Havana Is Talked.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—"It's a long way to Cuba, it's a long way to go." That's how Mike Gibbons today explained to me why he was not just about taking up the proposition of fighting Eddie McGorty over the 25 round route, at Havana, Cuba. He's anxious, he slipped it to me, to meet the Oshkosh boy at Hudson, Wis., where it isn't so far to walk back.

After Mike puts Eddie away at the Hudson meet, he says he is willing to talk terms of war for the meet with Jimmy Clabby again, this time over the 20 round route.

Mike Gibbons today let it be known that he never did meet a boxer with a cleaner way of taking defeat than Jimmy Clabby. "Why, the average pig will slip you a song that sounds like an all, when he is trounced," said Gibbons. "But by just took it as a clean defeat, because he was not used to the 10 rounds distance, so I'm going to try to arrange to give him a 20 rounds go."

There will be eight thousand perfectly good dollars laying around as the purse when the annual tournament of the International Boxing association, will be held at Minneapolis Feb. 11. This became known today and was about as much a surprise as when the St. Louis crack boxing team wrote for an entry in the tournament. This is the first time that a "show me" team has ever entered this Northwestern event.

"Oh, just a small consideration," of it, well, say 1,000 a week is all that Mike Gibbons was offered for becoming a Thespiian, according to his relatives. Gibbons was merely to go on the boards as the worlds champion and tell how he took from Jimmy Clabby's face that smile wasn't supposed to come off at Milwaukee. The offer includes the brother Tommy, and the two brothers may take to the road as soon as Tommy does his little job with Fighting Billy Murray at Hudson, Feb. 2.

TWO CHAMPIONS WILL MEET ON FEBRUARY 24

When Kilbane and Williams Let Gloves Fly in Phila., Boxing Fans Will Set up and Take Notice.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Feb. 4.—One of the choicest morsels in the fist line that has been dished up for the box-fight fans in a long time will be Johnny Williams-Johnny Kilbane six round card, scheduled for Philadelphia February 24.

This will be the first time in recent history of the padded mitt game that two actual undisputed champions have faced each other in battle. Williams is a "regular" champion. In his recent battles in this city the conqueror of Johnny Coulon made the old timers think of the famous winners of the past.

"None of the great little men of the past ever had anything on that youngster," said one grey haired fan, as he watched Williams beat a tattoo on the ribs of one Dutch Brandt, a New York star. "Williams is a far better man than Johnny Coulon ever was."

One thing that made Williams look mighty good in his contests here was his splendid condition. He fairly radiated good health. He started off like a veritable whirlwind in his bout with Brandt. And each round saw him increasing his speed a little. In the tenth round he was going like a buzz and didn't give the least impression of being tired.

Williams will have a tremendous handicap to overcome, however, when he tangles with the king of the featherweights. Kilbane will have a tremendous advantage in height and reach. The Cleveland boxer has a "slip" too, as he has demonstrated on several occasions.

Over the six round course the wise ones are stringing with Kilbane. It is their belief that he will show too much speed for his lighter opponent for the short distance. The pair should ever hook up over the marathon route—twenty rounds—Williams probably would be the favorite.

IF LARRY IS WORTH $9,000 TODAY, WHAT WAS HE WORTH IN 1907? HE GOT $2,400.

Bill Bernhard once stated that a ballplayer is worth as much as he can get. The case of Bill's old "roomie"—Larry Lajoie—would seem to prove his statement.

When the Frenchman left the Phillies to join the Athletics in 1901 he was getting $2,400. At that time Larry was in his prime.

Fourteen years later the Frenchman returns to the Athletics. Sept. 5, next will mark his fortieth year on earth. He is still good, great, but hardly the terror of old. Yet he is a $9,000 man.

The Larry of 1901—a $2,400 man in those days—would bring $75,000 in the baseball market today.

The Larry of 1915—a $9,000 man today—went to Connie Mack for nothing.

HIGHS HAVE CHANCE FOR STATE TOURNEY

Beloit Looks Like One Team From This Section.—Jamesville, Burlington and Racine Must Fight It Out.

There is no question but what the Beloit high school basketball team will enter the state tournament at Appleton this year. The Line City team have defeated several good teams all ready this year, and should win their half of the fight easily and with arms down. The Beloit team is composed of a string of veterans who are heavy and play together in fine shape. But it is not sizzling up the dope entirely in this, the southeastern section of the state.

Out of a list of possibly fifteen good teams in this section, Beloit, Jamesville, Racine and Burlington look like the strongest teams. In past years Beloit has been much weaker, and her strength this year may change the entire dope in this division. There is some possibility of Jamesville playing Burlington or Racine in an elimination game. Tomorrow night Jamesville meets Waukesha on the Jamesville floor. If the Bower City team wins, then Waukesha is eliminated from the tournament. The elimination of the Spring City team seems now a certainty since Burlington trimmed Elkhorn and Waukesha already this season. If Waukesha is again defeated by Burlington on Saturday night at Waukesha, then the former team is entirely eliminated, as is Elkhorn, for Waukesha won from Elkhorn once this season. The elimination of the Spring City team will then play Racine, as per schedule, and the winner will be matched with either Jamesville or Beloit in an elimination game. If Burlington goes to the Milton tournament, Jamesville may get a chance at them there. Also, Beloit and Jamesville may be matched in an elimination game. This is not looked for, however, as in past years such has not been the case. Four years ago Waukesha played Elkhorn in an elimination game. Three years ago Racine was met, and two years ago no elimination game was required by the Wisconsin College authorities. Last year Waukesha was the only obstacle between Jamesville and Appleton.

Jamesville is confident of victory Friday night over Waukesha. Capt. Stickey and Richards will start as forwards, with straightened ankles, while Rau will take charge of the center job. Stewart and Dearborn are ready to act as guards, with Wierick and Jones on the sidelines. The Baptists and Catholics will meet in a preliminary that promises to be a lively struggle. The Baptists rule the favorites.

BOWLING TEAMS TO COMPLETE AT PEORIA.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 4.—More than 500 five-men teams will compete in the American Bowling Congress tournament here in March according to word received by local tournament officials from Abe Langley, the secretary. Langley says unusual interest is being shown in the Peoria event and he expects a list that is likely to equal or surpass the record of six hundred teams at Chicago.

E. J. Ryan of Detroit, president of the A. B. C., writes that the largest delegation that ever left Detroit for a similar event will come to Peoria. At least fifty teams are promised by Charles M. Baker of St. Louis, a member of the executive committee.

Edwin H. Myers of Indianapolis and William E. Kelly of Ottumwa, Iowa, write that they will accompany big delegations. A special train will bring St. Paul and Minneapolis bowlers.

BUY AN AUTO, KEEP CHILDREN ON FARM.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Toledo, O., Feb. 4.—The old question, "How to keep the children on the farm," has been answered, according to John W. Willys here today. Willys is a big auto manufacturer. He is equal to the medium priced, reliable automobile, says Willys.

"The wild scramble on the part of farm bred boys and girls to get work in the cities is fast becoming a thing of the past. The motor car has brought the cities to them. The auto is keeping more youngsters on the farm today than promises of city wealth ever could do," Willys declares.

Willys puts the high price of farm products in the past directly at the door of the "on to the city movement." He declared:

"The agriculturist found he must boost the price of his product in order to pay for the planting, tending and marketing of that product. But the coming of the medium priced automobile has changed conditions. His sons and daughters have the opportunity for recreation they have always sought. They are practically as independent as the youngsters whose parents live in the suburbs. In the evening their car will take them far and fast as they want to travel. They can run to the city and attend a theatre, a concert or any other amusement.

And in the present day of scientific farming implements, they are not too tired to do this either Willys believes.

MORRIS MILLER

It is charged that the Feds' suit against the organized baseball was brought in the hope of causing a long delay, thus depriving the National and American leagues of the services of the players who have been named in the suit. This list includes Walter Johnson, Lee Magee, Ray Caldwell, Ed Konetchy and several other stars whose services are needed. This would be a serious blow to organized baseball. Should Judge Landis issue a temporary injunction in this case, these players would be compelled to sit on the bench, as Marsans was compelled to do last season, and the Feds would be compelled to put up an enormous amount of money as a bond to indemnify the defendants in case the former lost their suit.

Larry Lajoie is the only ball player in the history of the game who was ever declared a "unique" player by a court of justice. Back in 1902 when the National league brought suit against Lajoie, who had jumped to Connie Mack's Athletics of Philadelphia, the supreme court of Pennsylvania, in granting the injunction against Lajoie, said that the services of a player like Lajoie are of such a unique character and display such a specific knowledge, skill and ability as render them peculiar value to the club, and so difficult of substitution that their loss would produce irreparable injury to the club. Other players have been great performers, but Lajoie undoubtedly is the only one to be given the legal reputation of being unique.

Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, has a peculiar ambition. Ritchie wants to meet Freddie Welsh in a 20-round fight, again his title and then retire from the ring. "If I ever get Welsh in the ring again at 135 pounds under American rules, I'll believe him of the title he never won from me," said Ritchie. "After that I'll be a business man until I have made enough money to retire. I won't use the title to continue in the boxing game. I'll give it to some boxer worthy of it, and be satisfied I've shown myself the master of Welsh." Ritchie entered the hat business in San Francisco the first of the year. He bought an interest in a well established house. He is willing to meet Mandot, White, Shugrue or Welsh in 10-round bouts at catch weights, but insists that Welsh must do 135 pounds for him if they are to meet in a 20-round mill at New Orleans.

Fight managers have a new stunt—they pick out complimentary phrases from boxing reports, have them printed on cards for wholesale distribution. Sporting writers must be careful now in phrasing their stories. One might write: "McGloolik is sure to be a champion if all the other fighters in the world drop dead. The fans were delighted with his work because he lasted only one round and let them get home early." Next day the writer would be quoted on a press agent's card: "McGloolik is sure to be a champion." The fans were delighted with his work."

Freddie Welsh is showing much speed and cleverness in sidestepping bouts. He refused to listen to an encounter with William Saylor, and now the Welshman is trying to duck Scotty Monteth, who is trying to get Welsh to agree to a match with Johnny Dundee, recently graduated from the featherweight ranks.

Increasing interest in sport on the part of the United States army is indicated by the building of an outdoor hockey rink at the West Point Military academy this winter. This is the first time in many years that the cadets have had the use of a rink anywhere near the government school. A crack hockey team is expected to be the result of the innovation.

Jack McAllister, veteran outfielder, who recently was tendered the management of the Columbus club of the American association, has refused the place.

The result of Judge Landis' findings will be awaited with interest by thousands of baseball followers.

Hopper, supported by what is universally conceded to be the finest light opera organization in existence, the famous Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company, comes to Myers Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, February 8th and 9th, for three performances only in a selection of pieces from the extensive Gilbert and Sullivan repertoire. The organization comes here direct from the Auditorium Theatre, Chicago, with the same productions and cast shown there absolutely entire and intact.

During the local engagement, Mr. Hopper will be seen in the following character impersonations: Ko-Ko in De Wolf Hopper as "Ko-Ko" in "The Mikado" at Myers Theatre, Monday evening, February 9th.

"The Mikado" probably the most deliciously humorous characterization ever has ever attempted; Dick Deadeye in "Pinafore," a marvelous bit of grotesque acting; the Sergeant of Police in "The Pirates of Penzance," a characterization entirely different from anything in which his admirers have ever before seen him and as the Judge in "Trial by Jury," a delightfully mellow assumption of a deliciously satiric role.

JUDGE, I TELL OUR FRIEND THAT A CHEW OF TOBACCO LOADED WITH MOLASSES AND LICORICE WONT LAST AS LONG EITHER.

THE RETIRED FARMER LOOKED MANY YEARS FOR THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW.

A MAN is so tickled when he gets the small chew of real tobacco that he wants all his friends to use "Right-Cut" too. That's why you hear men telling their friends that "Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away.

Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary cased tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT.

The keynote of prosperity for the average inland town and city, was struck by Thomas Whitten of Trenton, Missouri, in his address before the Commercial club last Monday evening. Mr. Whitten is a hardware merchant in the little city of Trenton. He said that after the business men had exhausted every effort to build up the town through bonuses and promotion schemes, that it finally dawned upon them that they had neglected the garden spot close at hand, and so they commenced to cultivate the farmers.

The argument used was that the city limits of every trading center, is only an imaginary line. That its boundaries extend far out to all the territory covered. With this thought in mind the Trenton merchants started out to interest the farmers in Trenton. The building of good roads was encouraged. Many farmers were induced to join the Commercial club and they were made to realize that Trenton was their city as much as though they lived within its borders. This is effectively work along common sense lines, and Janesville can well afford to adopt similar methods. The rural mail service, the interurban, the telephone, and the automobile, all tend to annihilate distance, and the farmer is no longer a recluse. The interest in agriculture, through corn contests and prizes for farm management is also tending to break down the barriers between the town and country, and a better understanding exists today than ever before. This spirit should be encouraged for it means mutual welfare.

Every main artery connecting Janesville with the country, should be a boulevard. No street in the city is any more important than a dozen country roads running into it, and when these are made comfortable for travel, twelve months in the year, the city will take on new life. Let us work together for mutual betterment.

THE REST ROOM.

The much discussed rest room presents a problem which seems difficult to solve, for while everybody admits that the city should provide resorts of this kind, a variety of opinion exists as to how the work should be done. Realizing that everybody's business is somebody's business, the Civic League finally took the bold proposition, and decided that the east and west side hitch barns offered the best, if not the only solution of the problem.

These barns do business every day with a large number of farmers. They have rooms which can be fitted up at slight expense for the comfort and convenience of the farmer's wife and family. These rooms will be heated by the proprietors, and furnished and supervised by the women of the league. To do this a small amount of money—perhaps $200—is necessary, and this money, if secured, must come from the merchants and business men.

No argument should be necessary to convince the most skeptical that these rooms are infinitely better than none. It is an opportunity to do a little something for the comfort of people who come to Janesville to trade. It is worth something for the wife to be able to step into a pleasant room while her husband is taking care of the team. A room where she could feel that she was not an intruder, and where she could spend an hour in waiting, if necessary, with good reading to while away the time.

We make booster trips through the country, to advertise the city. Here is a chance to do some effective advertising at home. The project is worth the investment and will pay liberal dividends. Favors beget favors, and the little courtesies of life are often appreciated. Let us come to the aid of the public-spirited women who are trying to help us.

RATES AND CONGESTION.

The Wall Street Journal takes serious exception to the fact that the secretary of the treasury and the secretary of commerce have been reporting to congress about ocean freight rates. What they say to congress comes to this—that the steamship companies are now charging 20 cents a bushel to take wheat to Europe; before the war they were charging 4 cents a bushel; this is a high-handed outrage at the expense of the poor American farmer; therefore, give us $30,000,000 to go into the shipping business.

The twin secretaries did not seem to find it expedient to mention to congress that when ocean rates were 4 cents the farmer was selling his wheat in Chicago at 80 cents a bushel, and that now when ocean rates are 20 cents the farmer can get $1.45 a bushel in Chicago. If these facts had been mentioned, it might have occurred to some congressman that it is the European consumer, not the American farmer, who is paying the freight.

The sudden withdrawal of from one-fifth to one-quarter of the world's freight tonnage because of war naturally has caused a shortage in carrying capacity and a consequent rise in freight rates, though this shortage has to a large extent been neutralized by the natural lessening of the world's trade, with a corresponding decrease in demand. If the United States buys $30,000,000 worth of ships from the allies and neutral nations, it is not going to increase the world's available tonnage. If the United States buys $30,000,000 worth of interned German and Austrian ships, it will be only a drop in the bucket.

A much more serious factor in the present situation than any shortage of ships is the reduced efficiency of those now in European service.

The congestion at principal European ports is unheard of. Cable advices from typical ports report 75 ships at London, 72 ships at Genoa, and 65 ships at Marseilles, waiting to find a berth, and some of them have been waiting already six weeks.

A freighter that could formerly make a round trip in five weeks, with a good cargo eastbound, and a fair cargo west bound, is now lucky to make a round trip in ten weeks and with little or no cargo west bound. It must be able to earn enough from a single east-bound cargo to give it a normal profit on two round trips plus the extraordinary expenses that war has imposed.

Perhaps the cabinet will tell us how the ship purchase bill will help this condition.

There have been several cases on the docket of the municipal court in which the city is interested, one dating back to election day last November, that the public would like to see cleared up. Thus far, though three months have passed, this particular case of violation of a city ordinance remains yet undecided.

Already the Ohio river has given forth warning of the advent of the spring freshet and is running riot through West Virginia. Pretty soon we will hear from the same river further down its course, and later the Mississippi will loom into prominence on its way to the gulf.

Men's clubs holding frequent meetings for the discussion of matters of interest and common good to the community are most beneficial. Why not extend the idea and have monthly meetings with speakers of interest to discuss Janesville, its needs, and remedies.

MONTENEGRO, NATION OF LITTLE COMMERCE

With Centuries of Incessant Warring as a Record, Country Enters World-War for New Territory.

Montenegro is one of the smallest members of the family of nations, and Freedom has made her a small state among its dreary crags and unproductive, rock-strewn, gravel slopes. Not due to traditions of centuries of incessant warring, she has joined in the world-war, with eagerness to expand in the tobacco and grazing lands of Herzegovina. A picture of the strongly individual characteristics of this nation, the writer says, is contained upon a mountain, whose extraneous to the war-causes hardly a tremor of the balance, has been prepared for the National Geographic Society by George Higgins and the United States minister to Greece and the Balkans during 1909-1912. Surveying the history of the miniature country, against the powerful Islamic waves broke in vain for centuries, the writer says: "For 500 years it has maintained freedom, which of old has sat upon the heights; and, with sufferings incredible, with courage and spirit, it has fought against the power of the Turk, a struggle in which the Balkan master through the Balkans, battered against the mountain heights to no avail.

Montenegro has little to invite except the majesty of the vastness of its higher crests, and the little band of Slavs who fled hither had freedom more than luxury and ease of mind. At the creation, so runs a Montenegrin legend given by the writer, a great stone was sent forth to gather the superfluous stones on the earth's surface. He placed these stones in a bag which he carried as he was flying over Cetinogora, and as he flew, the stones, which were still the rocks which the angel spilled upon it.

The approach to the kingdom, a winding way all up hill, is spoken of by the writer as a splendid piece of engineering, which, waves up the gaunt, gray cliffs, finally threading a narrow, easily-defended defile and crossing over a pass mostly swathed in snow. Montenegro, Mr. Moses continues, is wedded with the writer, the expression of the present king's restless spirit for improvement. The capital itself, Cetinje, is hardly more than a knot of cross streets in two of the city's ends. There are no pretentious buildings in the city, only two being of more than two stories in height—the Russian and Austrian legations. The external life of the capital is simple in the extreme.

Montenegrins, according to the writer, are mostly of greater than average stature, and the men have come to feel their principal calling to be that of war. The women of Montenegro are its economic producers, and to quote King Nicholas, who has married his delightful daughters to some of Europe's leading houses, the women are the land's most important export. The men, Mr. Moses says, are good workers when put to it, and whenever a Montenegrin applying for a job is asked what he can do invariably answers, "superintendent."

"There is little commerce and almost no manufactures in the country, whose lands are barely rich enough to support the needs of the people in the most simple manner. Good tobacco is raised in the country, and a few coarse articles are woven in Podgoritz, and everything in use, however, is imported, and duties and prices are very high.

King Nicholas, a democratic monarch, more a patriarch than a king, an astute politician and a capable administrator. Throughout his long reign of more than fifty years he has accomplished much in the development of his land, has increased his territory many times, adding two Adriatic ports to his possessions, and thoroughly organizing all departments of his government.

BOB ACRES TALKS OF BADGER-LEGISLATURE

BELIEVES THIS SESSION WILL MAKE NAME FOR ITSELF IN EFFICIENCY.

EXPECT GOOD RESULTS

Members Are United In Effort to Enact Sound Legislation That is Constructive.

(This is one of a series of semi-political articles on Wisconsin politics.)

(By Bob Acres.)—Business took me to Springfield, Illinois, last week and I had an opportunity of viewing first hand the state men that the great state of Illinois has to offer. I do not like to make my opinion public but when it comes to true worth and value this legislature of Wisconsin is composed of men of more determination than that gathered at the Illinois capital and the men are of sounder judgment. Of course the speaker-in-chief in Illinois has left everything to the general trend of the proposed legislation in long lines far different from Wisconsin.

I call the Wisconsin legislature one composed of farmers. Well, they are. I do not mean that every member is a farmer in the true sense of the word but strange to say the 1915 legislature of Wisconsin has for a majority men who know the farm, farm life and farm requirements far better than any legislature in the past. It is not a reform legislature in any sense of the word. It is not a legislature where the professional legislator makes a rich haul. It is composed of men of more judgment, the majority of whom have acquired their knowledge by the hard school of experience and they are in a position to enact laws that will be beneficial to the state as a whole. It is not an accomplished I shall be much mistaken.

Never in the history of the lower house, the assembly, has such genuine feeling of companionship and good fellowship existed as at the present time. The election of Whitelaw as speaker appears to have consolidated all elements. He has been fair and just in his division of powers and assignments and the members are confident that they will receive fair treatment.

Of course there are members who seek to make a name for themselves by objecting to every measure that comes up unless they introduced it. One must expect that in the hundred odd men composing the lower house, that there will be found, but that they can be quickly distinguished. George P. Hambrecht is a leader on the republican side, and Ham-brecht knows parliamentary practice from the inside. I remember going to a debate at a literary society at the university along in the nineties and Hambrecht was one of the debaters and though, as he confessed to me afterwards, he did not have the best side of the question, he won because he kept his opponent muddled up all the time. Hambrecht is a comer in Wisconsin politics if he does that in some self-centered and forget that he is a representative of the people and not of the individual.

I might go on and name a dozen other assembly members you will find during the coming session but will refrain until a later session. In the senate one finds such men as Fairchild, Whitman, Perry, Burke, Everett, Bray, Ackley, Stevens, Bennett, and others of their like standing over the legislature. You cannot steal the carnival and ride to the university with these men on duty. Of course there is Bossard and the Lieutenant Governor, Dittmer, who feel that the weight of the nation rests on their shoulders, whose sole ambition is to stir up all the trouble they can for the administration, but among their followers I find Tompkins cast off the collar of servitude, and later declare himself a "Nidling," a man's man and join in with the others seeking to make this session a record. Cunningham from Rock County, is another senator who should be mentioned as being in earnest in his legislative work. His political affiliation are not to be considered when it comes to legislative efficiency, and parts and while he might be considered as adhering to all the administration measures, he will not be found wanting, many of his words.

But, coming down stairs now, I am going into the Governor's room. I am not going to the gayly decorated and elaborate Governor's private rooms, however. I have sat in the outer bureau office and seen senators, assemblymen and distinguished visitors, common every-day citizens like myself, enter through the door, be received with courtesy, their questions answered, and have watched them go away satisfied. It means a great deal just at this time to say this. Our Governor is a man of the people and for the people. He is not a politician, he is a legislator and he means to legislate all he can in the way of bettering the state that has honored him by election as its governor, even at a personal sacrifice.

If I may make any criticism of the Governor and his methods, would say that perhaps he is running his state affairs just as he would his own personal business and doing what he thinks best. He is consulting some of the men to whom he is looking for legislative results. I may be wrong in this but still it might be wisdom on his part to take them more into his confidence than he does. However, thus far he has made no radical mistakes so why worry.

Take his appointment of Jackson as member of the railroad commission. Jackson is a strong constructive lawyer. He is a book-wise, well-versed in litigation and the methods of escaping it and he will make a good member of the board. His second appointment is Walter Alexander, a lawyer. Who does not remember Alexander? He is a member of the University of Wisconsin football team years ago? He entered business with the same vim that he bucked the line and made a success of it. In his career in the railroad, Alexander's appointment in my mind strengthens that railroad commission wonderfully.

But there is something in the wind. Notice that resolution that went through both the assembly and senate to make an investigation of state affairs and report recommendations in the shape of a bill for passage for the various departments more efficient. Axel Johnson, a democrat, and the men named as members are among the strongest in the legislature. In the assembly perhaps the name of Herrington of Elkhorn is most familiar and I say that Herrington is going to make his impression in this session if any man does. Later I will have more to say about this board and their work.

STEALS WAGON LOAD OF FISH FROM CAR

Thief Takes Early Head of President Wilson's Warning and Lays in Food Supply.

Some one plans to have frozen pike to keep the lean wolf of hunger from the door for some time. Last night a brazen party backed a wagon against the freight car door and stole about three thousand pounds of fish owned by Sol. Schapiro. Tracks in the snow this morning show that a wide tired wagon was used and that the thieves were not at all bashful in shoveling from the fish in generous quantities from the car, which is "spotted" on North Main street. It was like dumping out cord wood and more remunerative for the thief as the fish are worth from ten to twelve cents per pound.

This morning when the fish salesman went to the car they found the padlock missing from the door catch. So were the fish. Patrolman Harry Smith and Fred Wright were called and a report was made to Chief Cunningham. How to trace the wagon-load of fish appears to be an easy point out up to noon there was no trace of the stolen fish, but the fishy tribe. No one saw the thieves work and the people who had fish for dinner could prove a good alibi.

THREE YEAR PRISON TERM FOR HOFFMAN

Judge Maxfield Sentences Forger to Penitentiary at Waupun.—Admiral Miller's Case.

Three years at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Waupun, was the penalty imposed upon James C. Hoffman by Judge H. L. Maxfield in the municipal court this morning, when Hoffman was arraigned for sentence on the charge of passing a forged check. Hoffman, standing before the justice bench, almost fainted when the sentence was pronounced, but controlled his nerves and said as he was handcuffed to the court room: "I would rather they would hang me than bring this disgrace upon me and more especially my family."

Hoffman, when called, did not venture to make a plea for mercy except through a petition of his attorney, Gardner Kavelage for a commitment. The sentence of the defendant was paroled out under the state house of control. This motion was overruled by Judge Maxfield, who said: "Forgery is one of the worst crimes that a citizen can commit. It is a crime against the very foundation of credit on which business depends."

The court is said to have taken into consideration both the fact that Hoffman had settled for the check passed at the Taylor grocery store on J. E. Newman for thirty dollars and two others that were passed with no account on the bank. His wife and daughter, who lived on Linn street, have left Janesville.

Miller in Court.

Fred Miller, held on the charge of burglary during the night time, was arraigned this morning, but on the consent of the attorneys, his case was adjourned until Monday morning. John Cunningham was appointed to defend Miller and requested the adjournment for further time to consider the case. Miller still refuses to reveal the hiding place of the silverware stolen from the Miller residence and the police are at loss how to make him tell what he knows. It was announced in court by the judge that the examination would probably be waived and the case not brought to trial because of the strong state evidence. William Harry, companion of Miller, was ordered held at the county jail as a witness.

Miller made a very favorable appearance in court today and there was no comment on the part of the spectators that he did not look the part of a criminal.

Adjourn Case.

Webster Peters, charged with second degree murder, was brought before court this morning for his preliminary examination. His case was adjourned until February 23rd. Attorney E. H. Ryan appeared for the prisoner, who was released in the custody of the officer.

CONCILIATION COURT URGED IN WISCONSIN

Will Introduce Bill Recommends Establishment of Court to Settle Petty Squabbles in State.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—The settlement of petty squabbles by means of a court of conciliation may be given a trial in Wisconsin, if the bill recommended by the legislative committee that has been investigating the question and system of courts in Wisconsin is enacted into law.

The committee recommends the establishment of such a court in Wisconsin. The questions of courts of conciliation were recently brought to the attention of the public by Chief Justice J. B. Winslow of the supreme court, who discovered a provision in the state constitution, to which no attention had been given, providing for such an establishment. It is over sixty-five years since this provision was incorporated in the constitution, without an effort to follow the example of other states, and to set on foot a scheme a trial will be presented at once.

Such tribunals exist in some European countries and are successful in disposing of a large percentage of the petty disputes that arise between neighbors amicably and without the expense of litigation, according to the report which has just been made to the legislature.

An independent investigation was made by Chief Justice Winslow of the subject. He found that the number of cases of conciliation seemed to have its origin in the Kingdom of Denmark in the year 1795. He found in one report that of 31,000 controversies brought before the tribunals of conciliation in that year, 21,000 were amicably settled, 600 were abandoned by the parties, and the remainder resulted in lawsuits before the ordinary courts.

Justice Winslow found that the constitutions of New York, Ohio, Indiana, North Dakota and several other states incorporated conciliation in their constitutions for those conciliation boards, but no direct use was ever made of them.

Every lawyer knows, and every judge knows, nearly every year of experience in the world knows that many a lawsuit on some slight and in some cases upon some imaginary wrong has dragged along for years, squandering the money of both parties, stirred up ill will perhaps for generations and finally left no tangible result, save its crop of bad blood and hate. Comments Justice Winslow in discussing the board of conciliation. "Truly it must be admitted that mediation if it could be made practically, would be of the greatest assistance in reaching speedy settlement of controversies which now serve no purpose except to create animosity and heart-burning and to deplete the resources of both litigants perhaps to the point of begging."

SHORT STORY ENTITLED "THE BOY FARMER" WILL START IN GAZETTE SOON.

A short story that will be of special value to the readers of this paper will start shortly. "The Boy Farmer" is a member of the Corn Club by Asa Farkle is the title of it. LAKOTAS ENTERTAIN THE LADIES FEB. 15

Club Will Have Friends of Fairer Sex As Guests At Banquet and Dancing Party.

The Lakotas Club will entertain the ladies Monday evening, February 15. Arrangements have been made for a big banquet in the private dining hall at the Grand hotel. Following the supper at 7:15 o'clock the Lakotas and their guests will assemble at Terpsichorean hall at nine for a dancing party which will hold sway until 1 A. M.

During the first several years of the Lakotas organization the Annual Ladies' Night banquet and open house was an event of considerable importance in the club's social calendar. During the past two years however other social events have tended to crowd out this affair.

The present house committee composed of Louis McCarthy, Carson Bumgarner, with the hearty cooperation of the club members, are reviving the old Ladies' Night custom this year. The club has attained a full membership of forty-two, and with the ladies, approximately thirty are expected to be present on the night planned.

Carpetbaggers this morning began alterations on the club quarters for an additional room. A rooming room removed from the lounge, room making an additional large and airy alcove on Franklin street on the Milwaukee street corner.

STOCKMAN LOSES MONEY AT STATION

Tells Police and Milwaukee Road Officials That Ticket, Purse and $18 is Missing.

Vern Bronell, son of a prosperous farmer near Minneapolis, Janesville today to purchase milk cows in this vicinity. This morning he purchased a ticket at the Milwaukee depot for Edgerton and carelessly dropped both pocketbook and ticket about eighteen dollars, and the ticket loose in his overcoat pocket.

Bronell got on his train and the ticket for Edgerton came through with the tamboouring and he reached in his clothes for his purse and money but failed to find them.

Bronell left the train and reported his loss to the Milwaukee agent, Fred Davis and Patrolman Harry Davis. A search of the depot failed to find either the purse, ticket or money.

Bronell suspects a congenial individual who was in conversation with him in conversation while waiting for a train.

UNABLE TO FIND REASON FOR

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"Yes, they're both nice girls," I caught myself saying the other day, "but I never liked the younger one so well as the older." The moment that last clause had left the tip of my tongue I would have called it back if I had the power.

Comparisons are odious. Such a statement could do no good and it might do harm. For, strange as it may seem to the normal mind, the average happy person waiting to pounce down on such a statement and carry it where it will pain. My own faults are like the sands of the sea in number, but I must say I cannot even conceive the state of mind in which one person could cold-bloodedly go to another and say, "So-and-so said this or that disagreeable thing about you."

To return to the main theme, the desire to compare and to measure by a foot-rule of merit or liking is one of the most deep-rooted instincts of the human mind.

"Take the One That You Love Best." "Take the one that you love best before you close your eyes to rest," we chant at the age of six, and in high school it has recently become a popular device for the class to vote as to which member of it is the most popular, which the prettiest, which the cleverest, etc. And the newspaper editor who wants some device to stimulate his readers into writing to the paper need not hunt for anything new. He may always rely on the old plan of having them express their opinion as to who is the greatest actress or the greatest ball player, or who are the ten greatest books.

Critics, however, always find it easier to quaken interest by comparing the merits of various books and plays than by discussing each book or play as an entity to be judged entirely on its own merits. Measuring Distance by the Bushel. Of course there is nothing wrong in this instinctive desire for comparison. The only wrong is to overdo it and to forget that things that cannot be compared. Comparisons are odious when you forcibly try to measure one thing by another of an entirely different nature. You cannot compare notes with volts or measure distance by the bushel. The old question as to whether a woman should let her children or her husband best in an example of this kind of forced and unnatural comparisons.

If you ask a little nephew of mine which he likes best, his father or mother, he always smiles very sweetly and says "I like them both best." That is certainly a very "canine" way to deal with an unfair question, and I think many of us grownups would do well to copy his unwillingness to make comparisons where comparisons should not be made.

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLK

BY ALICE CROWLEY GALL

ORLANDO OSTRICH. Orlando Ostrich lived upon an Ostrich farm, and he was miserable, for he was as envious as could be.

He used to say: "I wish I had a voice like Julia Jay. Or nice short legs like Dora Duck; I hate to look this way."

And though he was well-fed and clothed, no matter where he went, he always envied someone and increased his discontent.

One day as he was sulking 'round, complaining of his fate, a lot of men came walking through that Ostrich farm-yard gate.

Orlando heard them say: "Let's catch Orlando Ostrich, then we'll take him far away from here and put him in a pen."

Orlando did not wait to hear another word; he just began to run so fast that he looked like a streak of dust.

And as he ran he thought, "I'm glad my legs are long; if I outrun these men I'll never more be envious till I die."

He headed for a deep, dark wood; his speed he did not check; and just because he was so long he beat them by a neck.

Now don't you children really think that Envy is a Sin? Let's be content with what we have and run the race and win.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me directions for reducing a double chin.

E. T. To reduce or prevent double chin, try massaging with both hands. Begin at the chin. Let the wrists touch the fingers pointing toward ears. Rub toward the ears along the jaw bone and under the chin. Then massage the throat with a rotary motion, pressing hard on the upward stroke. Before beginning this operation wash face in hot water and anoint well with cold cream. This should be well rubbed in. At close of operation wash face in warm water, then dash on cold water to close the pores.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is the best motion to use in facial massage?

MABLE. In massaging face, chin, nose and temples a rotary motion is required. Around the eyes, to efface the turkey tracks, use the balls of two fingers and the rotary motion. Rub under the chin straight to the ears to keep muscles firm and prevent the sagging that is an indication of old age. For the throat, the circular motion. Use a good lotion or skin food in the process.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am greatly troubled with oily hair. Sometimes I have to wash it twice a week. It gets so greasy, and even then it is troublesome. Can you suggest a remedy?

JUNIOR. My dear, this trouble is usually caused by a rundown condition of the system and should have internal treatment, but there are some external remedies to be used while your physician is building you up.

Even in extreme cases, shampooing must not be done oftener than once in three weeks. If the hair becomes too long, take a cup of corn meal or Graham flour spread it out on a newspaper and sift thoroughly through the hair. Brush out with a stimulant brush, as stiff bristles stimulate the flow of oil.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me a good shampoo for oily hair.

HAZEL K. A good shampoo is made from a tablespoon of lime water beaten up with a raw egg and massaged into the scalp. A mixture of three drams of glycerine and four ounces of lime water should be kept on the dressing table. Wet the scalp with this every night. At the end of three weeks add one-half ounce of tincture of cantharides to the original mixture; continue using as before.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What should you say to a girl when you want to take her to a party or social? (2) How can a person get on the good side of the girls? (3) When getting off from a street car, should the boy go first or the girl? If the boy, should he help her off? (4) Does it hurt to put different stuff on boys' faces to make them soft and white?

A DAILY READER. (1) Simply say, "Would you like to go such and such a place? I would be pleased to take you if you care to." (2) Be attentive to their wants. Be neat and tasteful, not flashy in your dress. Be well read on the topics of the day, so you will have something interesting to talk about. It is a good plan to remember funny stories to tell. You can learn to tell stories well if you practice. (3) The boy should get off first in order to assist the girl. (4) A lotion of camphor and glycerine, equal parts, is good to use to prevent roughness. I cannot imagine a boy with any masculine qualities at all who would want his face to be soft and white.

Adventures in Matrimony

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Mother, can you mend the lining in my overcoat sleeve this afternoon? That bob-sled ride comes off tonight, and I'll need all my woolsies."

His mother reached out her hand for the coat, as Bob threw himself into a wooden rocker with a feather cushion, and sat watching the mending operation.

"Bent forward with his elbows on his knees and his hands clasped in front of him. 'Was bob-sled riding the proper caper in your day, mother?'"

Asked, looking at her face before him. A reminiscent smile was the only answer.

"Tell me about it," demanded the son, who had seen that smile before and knew a story lay behind it.

She paused in her work, and looked at him a moment over the top of her spectacles.

"I suppose you know that John Kingsley and your father were paying court to me at the same time," she began, dropping her eyes to her work.

"Yes," came encouragingly between Bob.

"Well, it was nip and tuck between them for a spell. I couldn't tell which one I cared for, and went with the one who asked me first, to the apple bees and parties. The young folks had been talking about a bob-sled ride ever since the first snow fell that winter, but before enough came to cover the ruts it thawed every time, so it was January before the sleighing was good enough to make a ride."

"The plan was to ride to a town eight miles away, have an oyster supper and ride home. Both boys had spoken of taking me, but I had party father brought home two notes for me, when he went to the store for the mail. I knew the handwriting of both boys and could easily guess what was inside. Which invitation should I accept? I could not decide, so I flipped a copper. Heads for John Kingsley and tails for father."

Bob chuckled audibly. "Oh, mother, who would ever have dreamed it of you?"

"I wrote a note to Jim, saying I received father's note first," continued Mrs. Saunders, "which was not true. I only read it first. Jim was not told."

He knew his note was in the first mail after the party was decided on, so he would not go in the bob-sled with the rest, but took his two-year-old colt and new cutter and started Molly Maple, a new girl who had moved here six months before.

"It was a cold, moonlight night and the cold wanted to go. As Jim tried to pass the load, coming home, our driver cracked his whip over the colt, just for fun, as he dashed by, and began to rear and plunge, then dashed off in a straight run down the road. I believe that horse is run-ning away," said John. "Let's hurry along." The driver whipped up the horses and I, anxiously watching, soon saw the cutter ahead, then discovered that it was standing still. "John called, 'Here comes Molly down the road; something's happen-ed.' He sprang over the side of the sled as the team stopped, and I after him. The frightened girl was wringing her hands and crying. 'He's killed! The cutter struck a tree and he was thrown out. He's killed!'"

"I could run fast in those days and away I sped up the road. I shall never forget the awful clutching at my heart as I saw Jim lying face up in the moonlight. I knew then which one I cared for. Kneeling in the snow I loosened his overcoat and listened to see if his heart was beating. I could hear it faintly. He was not dead. I sat down and took his head in my lap and began loosening his clothing and chafing his hands. He was bending over him when he came to, and our eyes met. Everything was settled between us in that look."

Address your questions to Food Editor and you will receive a reply by mail or through this column.

Oysters. From your knowledge of the oyster is it safe for those living at a distance from the source to supply to eat them?

If you refer to the shell oysters, which are shipped properly packed, we see no reason why they are not as healthy in inland towns as in those near the coast. If you refer to shelled oysters it is not a difficult matter to ship them along distances when properly iced. With the modern means of transportation and packing a few hundred miles makes little difference in the healthfulness of any food products. A bad oyster is a menace to health whether in Boston or Butte, Mont.

Gelatin Jelly. I had a quantity of currant juice fruit when pressed would not make a stiff jelly. Could I add gelatin to this and sell it as pure jelly? The gelatin, of course, is not an injurious substance. I shall appreciate your answer.

It is perfectly obvious that if you add gelatin or any other thickener such as starch or dextrine, the result will not be pure currant jelly, if you propose to label and sell

THIN HAIR MADE LONG, ABUNDANT, BEAUTIFUL

For hair that has lost its lustre--or has become scraggy and is falling out--there is a surprisingly effective treatment that will convert it into a luxuriant, fluffy, lustrous growth. This is the Hardin Treatment now becoming so popular in Janesville--the great new scientific combination of hair-growing and hair beautifying elements. All you do is to get a 50-cent bottle of Hardin's, a dietary preparation which when rubbed into the scalp produces the appearance of freshness and life, and after a few applications actually induces conditions for growing fine, strong, beautiful hair. With it, you will receive, absolutely free, a trial cake of Hardin's Medicated Shampoo Soap, the creamy lather of which, charged with health giving and nourishing oils, is gently massaged into the scalp by the Hardin Shampoo Comb, which you also receive free with your purchase. The circulation is increased, dandruff is loosened and removed, itching is relieved, the hair is stopped from falling and the whole head of hair made strong and beautiful.

To get this novel combination of hair-growing and hair beautifying elements, select a bottle of Hardin's from Smith Drug Co., selected as distributors. They guarantee satisfaction and will return price to any one dissatisfied. You will know them by the sign in their window.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father Has Discovered a New Anesthetic—P

BY F. LEIDIGER

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THIS PAPER MADE WITH THE UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
(Copyright, 1914, by John Fleming Wilson.)

John's jaw stiffened. "I guess it would be beyond your power to stop me."

Faversham shook his head. "A word from me to the authorities and you would find yourself not only barred from such a foolhardy expedition, but politely yet firmly made to leave the country."

John grinned. "I suppose that's right," he agreed. "But you won't be a spoil sport, will you?"

The baronet shook his head. "No, I won't. But I can't go myself. I'll stop here and have an eye out for Miss Gallon. Then if a rescue expedition is in order I can be here to head it."

For the moment John was blinded by a blaze of jealousy.

While he was risking his life for Ruth's sake Faversham would sit comfortably within the protection of his club and plot ways of winning Ruth.

He curtly accepted the offer of the servant and went off to make his preparations. These made, he sought Ruth. He found her in a strange state of excitement. Evidently the consul and his wife had not spared pains to impress upon her the dangers of the proposed expedition.

"They're old grannies," was John's disrespectful comment. "Ruth, you know that without those plans we're helpless to make 'The Master Key' into what your father wanted it to be. I set out to get those plans, and I've not come this far to turn back."

"I know," she said miserably. "But everybody says it is all foolishness. Sir Donald!"

"Oh, that quitter!" he interrupted. "I know he prefers sitting around making love to you to doing something really worth while."

"There was the glimmer of a smile on Ruth's lips as she answered meekly. "Then you don't think that—sitting around and making love to me—is worth while?"

"For a moment John stood and stared at her. The blood rushed into his face. Then the full meaning of her light evasion of his real meaning struck him like a blow between the eyes."

His heart was filled with love for her, a love that had grown and increased since the hour when he had first seen her at old Tom Gallon's door.

He had thought that his devoted service to her interests, his constant attention to the slightest detail that could insure her future happiness, would have published that love to her.

He was minded to tell her now, to forego all else in order to woo her for himself.

"Ruth"—he began. But some subtle change in her manner froze the hot words on his lips.

"Well," he went on, controlling himself by a tremendous effort and trying to speak lightly, "I'll be off. Thank heaven you'll be safe here."

There was a struggle in Ruth's breast too. Yet the memory of her promise to Faversham stilled her.

In that long and terrible moment she realized that John Dorr was all in all to her. Yet she was bound to another who had risked his life on the strength of her promise to marry him, and she could not speak what was in her heart.

She tried to look John bravely in the eyes, and the tears would come in spite of her.

She bowed her head, and so he left her, with bitterness in his soul. But the firm resolve to carry out his self-appointed task no matter what the outcome.

Faversham was as good as his word, and the old native agreed once more to risk the hills and guard this stranger who, he was convinced, had lost his mind.

But his duty was plain and Sir Donald's injunctions not to be trifled with. That evening the two of them set forth, following in the track of Wilkerson and his party.

That John should have departed without further farewell hurt Ruth sorely.

It seemed to mark a definite break in their frank relations, and she felt that when he returned with the plans she would have to receive him on an entirely new footing—the footing of a business man with his employer.

And while the hurt was fresh she turned to Sir Donald gratefully. He had acted most delicately in all their experiences together. He had proved his devotion by coming with them to India and, during the horrible night, more when their hotel had been the center of assault by fanatical natives. He had accepted her promise without undue exactions. He had seemed to be waiting till he and she could speak more definitely.

Faversham was by no means dull, and he played the part of a kind friend during the first days of John's absence.

He knew that Dorr was in love with Ruth, and he strongly suspected that her feeling for him had once bordered on love.

He would tear open no old wounds. He was devoted, cheerful, always at her call, but never insistent on his privileges.

The American consul liked him from the first and told his wife that Ruth would be a fool if she preferred a bare-brained idiot to a solid gentleman with no nonsense about him and assured position in society.

Mrs. Reynolds, having been rebuffed when she sought Ruth's confidences, merely stated it as her opinion that all girls were alike, a dogma the consul was too wise to argue.

But he gave Sir Donald the freedom of the consulate and saw to it that he had every chance to visit with Ruth.

Now, the baronet was not only no dullard, but he had been bred in a school that forbade him to linger too long before claiming Ruth openly as his fiancée.

At exactly the right moment he offered her a gorgeous ring and pressed his suit ardently. He said nothing of the promise he had exacted, and Ruth for very shame's sake accepted the ring and the ensuing congratulations of Mr. Reynolds, his wife and their friends.

Deep in her heart she felt herself a traitor to John Dorr, alone on his perilous errand, gone into the hills without even a stray word of his safety coming back.

It was not long before Dorr, through his servant's ready tongue, learned of the flight of the priests with the idol, their subsequent defeat by Wilkerson and that man's escape, together with Drake. There was but one thing to do—follow Wilkerson.

The native guide received the news of their change of objective with undisguised contentment.

Sir Donald's commands alone had forced him to disobey his own instincts. But in a matter that lay wholly between white men he saw nothing alarming to his own safety or personal dignity.

However, he warned John over and over again that the sacrifice had roused certain fanatical tribes to a pitch where they would ask few questions of wandering Europeans, but seek instant vengeance.

John's prayer was that Wilkerson and Drake might escape till he himself could overtake them.

Otherwise the idol would undoubtedly vanish once more into limbo. Wilkerson himself was having a difficult time of it. The men with him were almost openly rebellious, and at every attempt to retrace his road to the coast he found himself cut off by wandering bands of hillmen whose attitude was too threatening to be mistaken.

"That idol is going back to the States with me."

"If you would only drop that idol," said Drake for the twentieth time, "they would be satisfied to take it and let us go."

Wilkerson laughed and shook his head. "That idol is going back to the States with me," he returned. "But why in heaven's name?" demanded his companion. "You know that these people will never let us alone so long as they think we have it. You have the plans. What more do you want?"

"It brought me good luck and old Tom Gallon had luck," was the response. "Do you think I don't want to keep it? It's my mascot."

Yet a couple of night alarms shook Wilkerson's resolution, and he agreed with Drake that they should surrender the image.

Here they were confronted with a new difficulty. None of their men had been allowed to know of the presence of the idol, and Drake asserted that to inform them now would be dangerous.

It seemed unwise merely to drop it by the wayside, as it might escape notice, and no good would be done.

It must be delivered to the priests and the condition made that the white men should be allowed safe conduct to the city.

How to do this occupied their minds until the day when they found themselves really attacked in force and had to take refuge in a native hut.

Here their position was so serious that they had no time for anything but preparations for defense.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Snake in the Image.

THEY men business this time," Drake growled as they did their best to barricade the single door and window. "I believe those hills are full of them."

"And our own bullets aren't up fighting with good grace, either," Wilkerson confessed. "These half whites have no sand."

"It's an odd thing," Drake said when the afternoon had passed without an assault, "that we hear firing, but none of it is directed at us."

"That's so," Wilkerson responded thoughtfully. "I wonder who it can be?"

He was soon to know, for after nightfall John Dorr and his single attendant rode furiously up to the hut and tried for admittance.

A few scattering shots told that they had been discerned in their flight.

For the moment Wilkerson did not recognize his old enemy, disguised as he was in native costume, but when he was sure he reluctantly opened the door and admitted him.

John flung himself inside and jammed the door to just as a second hail of bullets rattled on its surface. Then he stared at the man opposite him.

"Wilkerson!" he gasped.

"Yes, it's me," was the snarling response. "What are you doing here?"

"Some hillmen took us for enemies and chased us pretty much all day long," Dorr explained. "We saw this hut, and when it was dark enough to conceal our movements we made for it."

"And now you can make for some other place," Wilkerson said, handling his revolver meaningfully.

John laughed.

"I feel myself that the place is too small for both of us. But it's white man against native now. If they get me they'll get you. Our only hope is to stick together now."

"I'll see you dead first!" snarled the other.

But Drake spoke up and silenced him. "While you two are fighting for the benefit of the servants these hillmen are preparing to assault the hut."

A long look through a crack showed the hillmen closing up about them, and Wilkerson gave in with a bad grace. He was glad of the help, however, when the firing grew hotter and they were hard pressed in the hut.

The natives proved themselves ardent cowards, and it depended on the three white men to defend the place. This they did with such success that their assailants slowly withdrew.

"Now is the time for a sortie," said Dorr. "We've got to drive them clean away from here or else we'll be as badly off as ever."

Wilkerson and Drake agreed, and John promptly led them out in a wild rush against the nearest hillmen.

These were so surprised at the boldness of the maneuver that they fled, and soon the coast was clear except for a few too badly wounded to join in their comrades' flight.

Now that the immediate peril was past, Wilkerson and Dorr found themselves again antagonists.

But both were so wearied that by one accord they silently consented to a truce.

Yet Wilkerson could not resist taunting his rival.

"It looks as if you were always a little late," he said, throwing himself back in a seat while John dropped upon a stool by the table.

"I heard you got the idol," John replied in a dull tone.

"Yes, and what was in the idol too?" Then, despite Drake's gestures of remonstrance, he went on: "I got the deeds and the master key and the idol and the plans Tom Gallon robbed me of. I guess I'm ahead in this game."

John nodded, his fatigue so great that he was unable even to reply.

"I guess that's right," said Wilkerson in an altered tone. "We'll catch a little needed sleep and get away before daylight. Time enough then to talk."

For a little while both men kept their eyes open, watchful each of the other. Wilkerson was the first to laugh and say: "What's the use? I've got the things and the men to defend them. I'm going to sleep. You'd better do so too. Drake will keep watch."

John nodded carelessly and laid his head on his hands, folded on the table. A moment later he was asleep, and not long afterward Wilkerson's satiric visage was turned to the shadowy ceiling.

Drake sat in a corner on the pack sacks, his revolver in hand.

The natives slumbered across from him, apparently oblivious of any danger.

When the hut was completely quiet except for the breathing of the sleepers Drake allowed himself to fall into a deep reverie.

Now that the quest was practically ended he had begun to think about his own part in it and reckon on his reward.

Long association with Wilkerson had shown him that he had nothing to expect from him unless by an appeal to his selfishness.

There was but one person who might reward him—the woman they both loved, Jean Darnell.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequalled.

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the cough thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in ginseng, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Pa, what's a retainer?"

"What you pay a lawyer before he does any work for you, my son."

"Oh, I see. It's like the quarter you put in the gas meter before you get any gas."

A well-known theatrical manager, more famous, if possible, for his many "breaks," he made than for his many successes, attending the rehearsal of one of his plays, noticed that a man in the orchestra who had to play the trombone was holding the instrument in front of him and doing nothing.

Mr. Stetson at once called him to account.

"Say," said he, "what do you mean by not working along with the other fellows?"

"Why, Mr. Stetson," said the musician. "I can't play; I have nineteen bars rest."

"Not on your life!" replied the angry manager. "I don't pay anyone for resting. Either you play when the other fellows do, or you clear out, see?"

RATE INCREASE NECESSARY

FARMERS' UNION OFFICIALS THINK RAILROADS ARE ENTITLED TO MORE REVENUE.

Products of Plow and Farmer Who Lives at Home Should Be Exempt From Increase.

By Peter Radford, Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The recent action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in granting an increase in freight rates in the eastern classification of territory; the application of the roads to state and interstate commissions for an increase in rates, and the utterances of President Wilson on the subject bring the farmers of this nation face to face with the problem of an increase in freight rates. It is the policy of the Farmers' Union to meet the issues affecting the welfare of the farmers squarely and we will do so in this instance.

The transportation facilities of the United States are inadequate to effectively meet the demands of commerce and particularly in the South and West additional railway mileage is needed to accommodate the movement of farm products. If in the wisdom of our Railroad Commissions an increase in freight rates is necessary to bring about an improvement in our transportation service, and an extension of our mileage, then an increase should be granted, and the farmer is willing to share such proportion of the increase as justly belongs to him, but we have some suggestions to make as to the manner in which this increase shall be levied.

Rates Follow Lines of Least Resistance.

The freight rates of the nation have been built up along lines of least resistance. The merchant, the manufacturer, the miner, the miller, the lumberman and the cattleman have had their traffic burdens thoroughly organized and in many instances they have pursued the railroad without mercy and with the power of organized tonnage they have hammered the life out of the rates and with unrestrained greed they have eaten the vitals out of our transportation system and since we have had railroad commissions, these interests, with skill and cunning, are represented at every hearing in which their business is involved.

The farmer is seldom represented at rate hearings, as his organizations have never had the finances to employ counsel to develop his side of the case and, as a result, the products of the plow bear an unequal burden of the freight expense. A glance at the freight tariffs abundantly proves this assertion. Cotton, the leading agricultural product of the South, already bears the highest freight rate of any necessary commodity in commerce, and the rate on agricultural products as a whole is out of proportion with that of the products of the factory and the mine.

We offer no schedule of rates, but hope the commission will be able to give the railroad such an increase in rates as is necessary without levying a further toll upon the products of the plow. The instance seems to present an opportunity to the Railroad Commissions to equalize the rates as between agricultural and other classes of freight without disturbing the rates on staple farm products.

What is a Fair Rate?

We do not know what constitutes a basis for rate making and have never heard of anyone who did claim to know much about it, but if the prosperity of the farm is a factor to be considered and the railroad commission concludes that an increase in rates is necessary, we would prefer that it come to us through articles of consumption on their journey from the factory to the farm. We would, for example, prefer that the rate on hogs remain as at present and the rate on meat bear the increase, for any farmer can then avoid the burden by raising his own meat, and a farmer who will not try to raise his own meat ought to be penalized. We think the rate on coal and brick can much better bear an increase than the rate on cotton and flour. We would prefer that the rate on plows remain the same, and machinery, pianos and such articles as the poorer farmer cannot hope to possess bear the burden of increase.

The increase in rates should be, so arranged that the farmer who lives at home will bear no part of the burden, but let the farmer who boards in other states and countries and who feeds his stock in foreign lands, pay the price of his folly.

Illustrating the character of unnecessary expenses to which we refer.

Union Opposes "Full Crew" Bill.

The Texas Farmers' Union registered its opposition to this character of legislation at the last annual meeting held in Fort Worth, Tex., August 4, 1914, by resolution, which we quote, as follows:

"The matter of prime importance to the farmers of this state is an adequate and efficient marketing system; and we recognize that such a system is impossible without adequate railroad facilities, embracing the greatest amount of service at the least possible cost. We further recognize that the farmers and producers in the end pay approximately 95 per cent of the expenses of operating the railroads, and it is therefore to the interest of the producers that the expenses of the common carriers be as small as is possible, consistent with good service and safety. We, therefore, call upon our law-makers, courts and juries to bear the foregoing facts in mind when dealing with the common carriers of this state, and we do especially reaffirm the declarations of the last annual convention of our State Union, opposing the passage of the so-called 'full-crew' bill, before the thirty-third legislature of Texas."

The farmers of Missouri in the last election, by an overwhelming majority, swept this law off the statute book of that state, and it should come off of all statute books where it appears and no legislature of this nation should pass such a law or similar legislation which requires unnecessary expenditures.

The same rule applies to all regulatory measures which increase the expenses of industry without giving corresponding benefits to the public. There is oftentimes a body of men assembled at legislatures—and they have a right to be there—who, in their zeal for rendering their fellow associates a service, sometimes favor an increase in the expenses of industry without due regard for the men who bow their backs to the summer's sun to meet the payroll, but these committees, while making a record for themselves, rub the skin off the shoulders of the farmer by urging the legislature to lay another burden upon his heavy load and under the lash of "be it enacted" goad him on to pull and surge at the traces of civilization, no matter how he may sweat, foam and gall at the task. When legislatures "cut a melon" for labor they hand the farmer a lemon.

The farmers of the United States are not financially able to carry "dead heads" on their payrolls. Our own hired hands are not paid unless we have something for them to do and we are not willing to carry the hired help of dependent industries unless there is work for them. We must therefore insist upon the most rigid economy.

Legislative House-Cleaning Needed.

While the war is on and there is a lull in business, we want all legislative bodies to take an inventory of the statute books and wipe off all extravagant and useless laws. A good house-cleaning is needed and economies can be instituted here and there that will patch the clothes of indigent children, rest tired mothers and lift mortgages from dependent homes. Unnecessary workmen taken off and useless expenses chopped down all along the line will add to the prosperity of the farmer and encourage him in his mighty effort to feed and clothe the world.

If any of these industries have surplus employees we can use them on the farm. We have no regular schedule of wages, but we pay good farm hands on an average of $15.00 per day of thirteen hours when they board themselves; work usually runs about nine months of the year and the three months dead time, they can do the chores for their board. If they prefer to farm on their own account, there are more than 14,000,000 acres of idle land on the earth's surface awaiting the magic touch of the plow. The compensation is easily obtainable from Federal Agricultural Department statistics. The total average annual sales of a farm in the continental United States amounts to $516.00; the cost of operation is $340.00; leaving the farmer $176 per annum to live on and educate his family.

There is no occasion for the legislatures making a position for surplus employees of industry. Let them come "back to the soil" and share with us the prosperity of the farm.

When honesty is merely a good policy it is a poor virtue.

GAME WARDEN WRITES ON CAUSES OF DYING OF ROCK RIVER CARP

Decayed Matter in Holes Gave Off Gas Which Caused Death of Thousands of Carp.

The death of the large number of Rock river carp, first noticed about six weeks ago, according to a letter from John A. Sholtz, state fish and game warden to Game Warden William P. Mason of this city, was due to the presence of a large amount of decaying matter in certain localities. The fish breathed this gas along with the oxygen from the water, but the former gas was of such a quantity that the lung organs were impaired and suffocation resulted.

Professor Wagner of the University of Wisconsin conducted an inquiry into the death and it is on this that Mr. Sholtz' letter is based. It follows:

I will give you Prof. Wagner's opinion of what is causing the death of the carp in Rock river.

He states that he made a careful examination of the fish and is satisfied that they died from the so-called gas-bubble disease. As the fish must get their oxygen from the water, they also take with the oxygen, the gas which is in the water. Now it happens that by the presence of too much decaying matter or for other reasons that the water in certain localities (not necessarily whole lakes or rivers and even quite small areas) become so charged that the fish, through absorbing these gases, cannot handle them and they separate out bubbles in the fins, on the skin and in the cavity behind the eye, hence the pop eye. The accumulation of gas interferes with the normal function of the body and death results. For reasons unknown it is usually a single species that suffers.

In the case of these carp, they must have been crowded in some hole in the river where decaying conditions were bad. As the condition is one of the water and cannot be foreseen or prevented, there is nothing to be done. Usually the condition lasts but a short while and does not do any serious damage to fish in general.

There seems to have been a large number of fish killed, but when considering with the number in the river, it is but a very small proportion.

Yours very truly,

John A. Sholtz.

CROWDS OVERFLOW APOLLO THEATRE

Two Photoplay Productions of Well-Known Shows Prove Strong Attraction.

While hundreds stood, awaiting admission, an overflowing audience laughed and cried at the double production of May Irwin in "Mrs. Black Back" and Emma Dunn in "Mother." The Apollo theatre last night.

There were times when the show, by a dry eye in the theatre. The picture version of this wonderful play is full of heart interest though not to the point of depression. Like life itself it has its humorous parts. Mrs. Wetherell, the mother, sums up her idea of motherhood and mother love in her all embracing love, which does not permit or even think of her children, even though it means suffering and expense to her. And because the most of us have had mothers like that, the heart was more readily touched.

The photoplay was well staged and photographed by the Wm. A. Brady Picture Play Co., and presented through the World Film Corporation, America's foremost comedienne, May Irwin, was the creator of great mirth in her original success, "Mrs. Black Back." Miss Irwin's humorous mannerisms and lovable personality kept the audience laughing from start to finish. The picture had more mirth provoking situations than most night productions, which many last night had witnessed.

During the intermission between the two pictures a very much appre-

ASSOCIATION FORMED BY COUNTY TEACHERS

Have Invitation to Visit State Capitol by Lawrence Whittet—Leave on February 12th.

(By O. P. Murwin)

Fulton, Feb. 3.—On Friday evening, Jan. 22, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Murwin invited all the teachers in the town of Fulton to their home, so that the teachers might become better acquainted and thus help each other in their school work.

A good many of the teachers were there, also County Superintendent Antisdel and his assistants, Misses Clapp and Cook. A letter was read from Mr. Harper, chief clerk at state superintendent's office, regretting that he would be unable to attend, owing to a previous meeting at Monroe.

The teachers formed the Fulton Teachers' association, electing Miss Lillian Somerfeldt of District No. 7 for president; Miss Irene Jordan of Joint District No. 3 for vice president, and Miss Helen Anderson of District No. 5 secretary and treasurer.

The teachers are to meet at different times in different districts, and it is believed this is one of the best steps that has been taken to stimulate the interests in our rural schools.

An invitation was also given the teachers by O. P. Murwin, town clerk, from Lawrence Whittet, speaker of the assembly, to visit the capitol at Madison and see the assembly in session and to shake hands with Governor Phillips.

As the Teachers' State convention will be held in Madison on Feb. 12 and 13, County Superintendent Antisdel invited the teachers to come to Madison on Feb. 12 and also attend the convention. He has since arranged through Speaker Whittet to have all of the teachers in Rock county visit the assembly at 10 a. m. Friday, Feb. 12, and a meeting with the governor will be at 2:30 p. m. of same day.

Also invitations were received from the state superintendent's office, the library commission and several other commissions to call and see their work while there, and thus see some of the forms of government the teachers are expected to teach in their schools each day. It is hoped to see every teacher in our town at the depot in Edgerton Friday morning, Feb. 12, to take the 8 o'clock train for Madison.

SPRING HERE? LARK AT SOUTH JANESVILLE

Northwestern Shop Men Say It Has Reached South Janesville, Although First Robin Not Reported.

The idea of March have passed. Too the Ground Hog came and saw that he failed to turn out the winter with the determination of a short snooze while the present storm reigns supreme.

The time is ripe for the harbingers of spring. Perhaps the little Groundhog bands are tooting praises to 42-centimeter cannon and cannot afford to wait for the spring forerunner, matters not. When the proverbial robin redbreast, leader of the feathered species to the cold north from the winter solstice in the tropical south, is late this year.

A meadowlark was reported yesterday at South Janesville. It was seen by Northwestern railway shop employees. They will swear to their statement and after that swear to the swearing of the first stateman.

Of the force who discredited the story of the lark's appearance the two who reported first the bird's presence are determined in their conviction that they are right. Although the boys at South Janesville are having lots of fun at the expense of the town whom they have nicknamed "the Doc Cooks," giving the suburban prairie the once over with the hope of discovering the bird.

Northwestern employees of Janesville proper are advising their brethren below to carry a pocketful of salt each to catch the lark. At the shops today they were trying to figure out the swiftest man there to place the salt.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR! NO MORE DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

HAIR COMING OUT? IF DRY, THIN, FADED, BRING BACK ITS COLOR AND LUSTRE.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair growing and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten your hair with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing, your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.
